RODS

What a year it's been for our rods! Over the past 12 months our top-end Horizon X5 range has firmly established itself, not only as the best carp fishing rod we've ever produced, but also as one of the best marketed by any manufacturer! Used by many of the world's best long-distance casters, the Horizon X5 range has built itself a formidable reputation as the go-to rod for anglers who want the very best, without paying prices commanded by custom rod makers. At the other end of the price spectrum is our EOS rod range: a market leader in the entry-level category.

For 2019 we've made a few tweaks to the rods that you'll find between the price points of the X5 and EOS ranges. We've discontinued our Horizon X, Torque and Warrior S models and replaced them with two new ranges in the form of the Horizon X4 and Horizon X3. Both offer incredible value for money and you're sure to be impressed with what you see on the coming pages...

REELS & LINE

Why should you buy Fox reels? Well, the simple answer is because unlike the vast majority, Fox reels are actually designed specifically for the purpose of carp fishing. What's more, they're designed and tested by carp anglers. Most reels sold for carp fishing are not purpose-designed, but are intended instead, for sea angling and have a few cosmetic tweaks in order that they can be passed off as carp models. Here at Fox, we're extremely passionate about reel development, with the simple brief that we make reels that do the job they're intended for, whilst still offering incredible value for money.

We currently offer two reel ranges: the FX range comprising three models (FX9, FX11 and FX13) and the lower-priced EOS range, which now includes a brand new model in the shape of the 10000FD - a front drag version of our record-selling EOS 10000 which features a rear freespool facility.

In addition to producing reliable, purpose-built carp fishing reels, we also offer an extensive range of lines to spool them up with. Whether you're in the market for monofilament, fluorocarbon or braid, you're sure to find the perfect product in the coming pages. As well as the mainlines, we also make a range of leaders that offer the ultimate protection when snag fishing or long-range casting.
